

For Immediate Release:

Plants Seeds for Fun, Health and Education in Campus Garden
Volunteers invited to explore opportunities for providing support.

Texas

Gardens have taken root all over Texas including at _____ In the campus garden children are learning valuable lessons about science, nutrition and more while having fun watching plants grow and sometimes eating the results. To ensure the students have a thriving garden when they return after the summer vacation, volunteers are needed to donate their time this summer. The garden's value is undeniable and maintaining it benefits greatly from community support. Interested volunteers are encouraged to contact the school to learn more about helping to maintain the school gardens through watering, providing materials or financial support, weeding, and assisting in other ways.

Learning about good nutrition and where food comes from helps children develop healthy habits that last a lifetime. Gardening volunteers can contribute to a healthier future for the community and make an impact on the lives of young children. _____ encourages interested volunteers to contact them about offering the following support:
