INTRODUCTION

Children learn best by doing. Allowing children to take an active part in food preparation increases:

Knowledge of math, science and reading

Improves social skills and manners

Understanding of where food comes from

The likelihood to taste and enjoy all foods

Understanding and improving the child care environment

TIPS FOR COOKING WITH CHILDREN

Be prepared. Have all ingredients laid out with needed equipment.

Use plastic utensils to guard against breakage.

Use aprons or towels tied around the waist to keep children clean.

Take a moment to explain the ground rules and project.

Start the activity by everyone washing his or her hands.

Demonstrate how to use a knife properly and always supervise.

Do not include a cooking activity that is “deep fried.”

If using stove top burners, ovens, or other equipment that will be hot, demonstrate how to use potholders and stay clear of the heat.

Place electrical cords where children cannot trip over them.

RECIPES

These recipes satisfy the snack components and creditable food/beverage items of the CACFP, for children one through five years of age. Refer to the USDA Food Buying Guide (FBG) for Child Nutrition Program and the Crediting Handbook for the Child and Adult Care Food Program to serve the correct amount per service for each age group and requirement specifications for creditability.
